Coaching Takeaways

The goal: get past the gatekeeper, ask before you pitch, and leave every call with a booked time.

STOP

- Pitching to gatekeepers. No AI, leads or services.
- Repeating "business matter."
- Stopping at "No, they're not expecting my call."
- Asking permission: "Do you have two minutes?" "Can I ask you a quick question?"
- Easy-no phrases: "If you're interested," "Would it be worth...," "Would you be open to..."
- Pitching right after "Not interested."
- Negative questions: "What isn't working?" "What's holding back your growth?"
- Vague lines: "This is an outreach call." "I want to evaluate..."
- Saying Ken knows them, asked for them, or wants to meet them.

CONTINUE

- Confident, warm tone.
- Listening, then adapting to what they say.
- Staying polite and persistent with gatekeepers.
- Confirming date, time, time zone and email before you hang up.
- Sending payout and money questions to the team.

START

- Answer, add one line, then make a request.
- Ask the routing question before you pitch.
- Use their answer: "That's exactly why I'm calling."
- Close with two specific times.
- Get a direct number before they hang up.

LINES TO USE

Gatekeeper: "What's this regarding?"
"It's about [Owner]'s advisory practice. I'm calling on behalf of our founder, Ken Himmler, and it's best discussed with [Owner] directly. Could you put me through, please? Thank you."

Gatekeeper: "Are they expecting your call?"
"No, they're not. I'm calling on behalf of our founder, Ken Himmler, about [Owner]'s practice. Could you put me through, please?"

Prospect: "Not interested."
"I understand. What are you focused on right now with your practice? Keeping what you've built, or growing it?"

Prospect: "I'm good."
"That's great to hear. Out of curiosity, how many more clients could you take on right now?"

Close
"Are you free [day] at [time], or would [time] work better? I'll send the invite and call you 5 minutes before. What's your best direct number?"

Every answer: answer, add one line, then a request or open question. Only say what's true.
