

One Wealth Map: Objection Bank for Brainstorming

For the 10/09/26 coaching session with Mark and G-Anne (Arque, Bea). Sources: RIA Outreach Playbook v2 (DRAFT for Ken, dated 09/23/26), Ken's comments in that draft, and the 10/08/26 ET call.

How to read the answers: lines marked [Playbook] come straight from Playbook v2. Every other answer is a draft for brainstorming. Ken has not reviewed them. Use them to practice, and send the best ones to Sam for approval before using them on live calls.

Part 1. What Ken's comments say

The draft has 4 comments from Ken, all made on 09/23/26 (UTC).

#	Where	Ken's comment	What it means for the SDRs
1	Compliance, approved figures	"confirmed" (and tagged Sam)	They may say "around $300M and growing about 40% a year." Use those exact words, nothing else.
2	"What are your client minimums?"	"While our ADV states 2 million is minimum we allow lower, down to 350k if there are other opportunities, businesses, real estate, or even if the advisor is a Tier 4 or 3 advisor... for a tier 2 or 1 advisor they usually will not want to work on less than 2 million." Assigned to Sam.	Sam still needs to turn this into an approved script line. Until then, use the playbook default: "Our principals can walk you through who we serve best."
3	"Would I keep my brand / staff?"	"correct" on the line "It depends on the structure." Assigned to Sam.	That answer is approved: "That's a great question for the principals. It depends on the structure."

Still open in the draft: who runs recruit calls, who sends the NDA, and the payout or economics answer. The draft says Section 12 lists all open questions, but my copy has no Section 12.

Corrections to the guide I gave you earlier

- "One Wealth Map looks small": you now have approved facts. OWM is a multi-family office with about $300M AUM, growing about 40% a year, and the founder has built and sold a few firms (playbook opening line).
- "What is this for?": the playbook's opener does state the purpose ("what's next for their practice, whether that's growing, partnering, or eventually stepping back"). Mark said on 10/08 he feels he can't state it. Clarify this with Sam. The playbook only bans numbers, deal terms and client-transfer talk. It does not ban saying why you are calling.

- The playbook is written for Mark. I don't have enough information to confirm whether G-Anne uses the same version.

Part 2. Rules every answer must follow (from Playbook v2, Section 1)

1. No valuations, prices, multiples, payout or deal terms, ever.
2. Approved figures only: about $300M, about 40% growth.
3. Never imply that clients automatically come over in a deal.
4. Recruits: never ask for client lists, never comment on non-competes or non-solicits.
5. Never say who else OWM is talking to.
6. When stuck: "Great question. That's exactly what [Principal] will cover. Let me get you time with them."

The formula for any objection: Acknowledge → Answer briefly or redirect → Ask a question or ask for the meeting.

Part 3. The objection bank

Already covered with Mark and G-Anne on 10/08 and not repeated here: "We're good / not a fit," "What is this for?", "What's the meeting with Ken about?", "OWM looks small," and the gatekeeper asking "What is it for?"

A. Gatekeepers and getting through

#	They say	Try this
A1	"Is this a sales call?"	"No, I'm not selling a product. It's a business conversation for [advisor] as a firm owner. Is he in today?"
A2	"He doesn't take unsolicited calls."	"Understood, I respect that. What's the best way to get a short note to him: email, or a better time to call?"
A3	"Send an email."	"Happy to. What's his direct email so it doesn't get lost in a general inbox? And I'll mention I spoke with you." Then send the track email from Section 10 of the playbook.
A4	"Can I tell him what it's regarding?"	"Sure. It's [name] from One Wealth Map, about his plans for the practice. It's confidential, so I'd rather share the details with him directly."
A5	"He's with a client / busy."	"No problem. When does he usually have a gap? I'll call back then." Log the time in GHL.

#	They say	Try this
A6	"We get calls like this all the time."	"I can imagine. That's why I'll keep it short. What's the best time to catch him for two minutes?"
A7	"I handle these decisions."	"Thanks. Are you part of the ownership, or do you help run operations? [If ops:] This one is about ownership plans, so it really needs to be [advisor]. When's a good time?"
A8	"He's not interested." (said for him)	"Fair enough. Would you mind if I sent one short email so he can decide himself? What's the best address?"
A9	IVR / phone tree	Try the operator option or the directory by last name. Write down which option worked in GHL so the next call goes faster.

B. Early brush-offs (first 30 seconds)

#	They say	Try this
B1	"I'm busy right now."	"Totally understand. Is there a better 2 minutes later today or tomorrow?"
B2	"Just send me something."	"Will do. So I send the right thing: are you the owner of the practice, or part of a larger team?" (This also routes the track.)
B3	"Not interested."	"Fair. Can I ask one question before I go? When you picture the practice five years from now, are you still running it, handing it off, or already out?" [Playbook routing question]
B4	"How did you get my number?"	Be honest and specific about the source (public listing, Apollo, firm website). "We reach out to a small number of firm owners. I'm happy to take you off our list if you'd prefer." Check with Sam on the approved wording.
B5	"Take me off your list."	"Of course, I'll make sure of it. Sorry to bother you." Mark it as Do Not Call in GHL right away. Do not push.
B6	"Who are you with again?"	"One Wealth Map. We're a multi-family office, an RIA with tax, estate, insurance and the back office all in-house."

C. Trust and who OWM is

#	They say	Try this
C1	"Never heard of you."	"That's fair, we're not a household name. We're a multi-family office at around $300 million, growing about 40% a year. Our founder, Ken Himmler, has built and sold a few firms."
C2	"What's a multi-family office?"	[Playbook 2.4] The 60-second answer. Both SDRs should memorize it.

#	They say	Try this
C3	"Isn't that just a bigger RIA?"	[Playbook] "We are an RIA, but the difference is everything else in-house and coordinated. Most RIAs refer out tax, estate and insurance. We do it on one team."
C4	"Who is Ken?"	"He's our founder. He has built and sold a few firms, so he's been on both sides of these conversations." Ask Sam for 1 or 2 more approved facts (years in industry, credentials).
C5	"What are your client minimums?"	[Playbook default] "Our principals can walk you through who we serve best." (Ken's comment gives details, but Sam still needs to approve a script line.)
C6	"Are you a broker / recruiter / headhunter?"	"No, I'm with One Wealth Map directly. I set up conversations between firm owners and our principals."

D. Compliance and recorded lines (G-Anne's concern)

#	They say	Try this
D1	"I can't talk about this on a recorded line."	"Completely understand. Is there a better number or a time outside the office to talk? Or I can book a short call with our principal directly."
D2	"Compliance has to approve anything like this."	"Makes sense. This is just a conversation, nothing to sign. Would it help if I sent a short email you can share with compliance?"
D3	"My broker-dealer / firm wouldn't allow it."	"Understood. That's exactly the kind of thing our principals can talk through with you. I can't advise on your agreements."

E. Timing

#	They say	Try this
E1	"Call me next quarter / after tax season."	"Happy to. Can I put a date on the calendar now so it doesn't slip? How about [specific date]?"
E2	"I'm not thinking about anything right now."	"Totally fair. Most owners aren't, until they are. Do you have a written succession plan today?" [pivot to Succession]
E3	"Maybe in a few years."	That is the Succession track. "Would it be useful to start planning now, on your timeline, with no commitment?"

F. Owner tracks (Sell, Merge, Succession)

#	They say	Try this
F1	"What would you pay?"	[Playbook] "I'm not the right person for numbers, and I'd never guess. That's exactly what the principals cover once an NDA is in place."
F2	"I'm talking to other buyers."	[Playbook] "That makes sense. The difference we'd bring is what your clients get afterward. Worth adding us to the list?"
F3	"I'm not ready yet."	[Playbook] Pivot to Succession: "Would it be useful to plan for when you are?"
F4	"I don't want to lose control."	[Playbook] "That's the most common concern, and the right one to raise. What you keep is what the principals walk through. It's not one-size-fits-all."
F5	"Would I keep my brand / staff?"	[Playbook, approved by Ken] "That's a great question for the principals. It depends on the structure."
F6	"How does the money work?"	[Playbook] "I'm not the right person for economics. The principals go through that transparently."
F7	"It's too early."	[Playbook] "Most owners say that, and most wish they'd started sooner. This is just planning. No commitment."
F8	"I'll sell to my junior advisor."	[Playbook] "Some owners pair that with a firm like ours for the back office and services. Worth knowing the option exists?"
F9	"My kids are taking over."	"That's great. Are they in the business today? Some families pair that with our back office and services so the next generation has more support."
F10	"Will my clients be taken care of?"	"That's the right question. They'd get a full team, tax, estate, insurance, not just one advisor. The principals can walk you through how the transition works." Never promise clients will move.
F11	"I need to talk to my partner / spouse."	"Of course. Would it help to include them on the call with our principals?"
F12	"Who else are you talking to?"	"I keep every conversation confidential, the same way I'd keep yours." Never name anyone.

G. Recruit track (individual advisors)

#	They say	Try this
G1	"What's the payout?"	[Playbook] "I'm not the right person for that. Our team walks through economics directly on the intro call."
G2	"Could I bring my clients?"	[Playbook] "That depends on your current agreements, and it's a question for your attorney and our team. I can't advise on it."
G3	"I'm happy where I am."	[Playbook] "Great to hear. If that ever changes, I'd love to be the call you make. Mind if I check back in a few months?"

#	They say	Try this
G4	"I have a non-compete."	"That's a question for your attorney and our team. I can't advise on it." [Playbook wording] Move on.
G5	"Is this a recruiting call?"	Honest: "Yes, in part. We're talking with a few advisors who want to grow faster than their current setup allows. Would 20 minutes be worth it to see if it's a fit?" Check with Sam that this is approved.
G6	"I don't own the firm." (on an owner call)	[Playbook] Stop the M&A talk. Move to Recruit, or ask: "Who is the best person to talk to about the firm's plans?"
G7	"How many leads would I get?"	"I can't promise a number. Our principals can describe how lead flow works for our advisors." Never promise results.

H. Booking and after the booking

#	They say	Try this
H1	"Just tell me now, why do I need a call?"	Give the track pitch in 30 seconds, then: "The details depend on your situation, which is why the call is with our principals."
H2	"20 minutes is too long."	"Fair. Even 15 works. Tuesday at 10 or Thursday at 2?" (Always offer two specific times.)
H3	"Send me a calendar link."	"Happy to. Let's pick a time now so you get the invite right away. Which works better, [time] or [time]?"
H4	"I'll call you back."	"Sounds good. In case we miss each other, can I hold a tentative time and you can move it if needed?"
H5	Booked but no-show	Call the same day, then email: "Sorry we missed you. Want to grab another time?" Playbook standard is a 65% show rate.

Part 4. Brainstorm session plan (about 45 minutes)

1. Warm-up (5 min): each SDR gives the 60-second multi-family office answer, no notes (playbook readiness check 1).
2. Sort objections (10 min): ask each SDR which 3 objections from Part 3 they have actually heard. Start with those.
3. Write their own versions (15 min): for each objection, they write one line in their own words, following the formula. This is Bea's "make the script your own" point.
4. Role play (10 min): Arque or Bea plays the advisor. Rotate: gatekeeper, owner, individual advisor.
5. Wrap (5 min): list the lines that need Sam's approval (B4, C4, C5, G5 and any new ones). Send them to Sam in one message.

Open questions to send Sam: 1. Can SDRs state the call purpose plainly, as the playbook opener does? 2. Approved wording for minimums, based on Ken's comment. 3. Approved facts about Ken beyond "built and sold a few firms.” 4. Who runs recruit calls, and who sends the NDA? 5. Does G-Anne use the same Playbook v2 as Mark?
